

EPRG Energy & Environment Seminar Programme Lent Term 2020

Tuesdays starting at 12:30

14 January	Iain Staffell (Imperial College London) Taxes, subsidies or regulation: Why have Britain's carbon emissions from electricity halved? (Cambridge Judge Business School, Room KH107)
21 January	Maureen Paul (Ofgem) The distributional impact of policy proposals on different groups of GB energy consumers (Faculty of Economics, Keynes Room)
28 January	Mathilde Fajardy (EPRG, University of Cambridge) The economics of BECCS deployment in a 1.5°C or 2°C world (Faculty of Economics, Keynes Room)
4 February	Randolph Brazier (Energy Networks Association) Flexibility markets for electricity in Great Britain (Faculty of Economics, Keynes Room)
11 February	Rebecca Ly (EPRG, University of Cambridge) The competitive effects of sequential intraday electricity markets: Evidence from Italy (Faculty of Economics, Keynes Room)
18 February	William Nuttall (The Open University) Fossil Fuel Hydrogen: Technical, Economic and Environmental Potential (Faculty of Economics, Keynes Room)
25 February	Aoife Haney (University of Oxford) Business model innovation for sustainable development: Lessons from off-grid energy in Sub-Saharan Africa (Faculty of Economics, Keynes Room)
3 March	Andreas Lange (University of Hamburg) Private contributions and the regional scope of public good provision: How donation experiments can inform public policy (Faculty of Economics, Keynes Room)
1

Seminar organizer: Robert Ritz (rar36@cam.ac.uk)